

My Store

I am the king of this full-house store
I keep materials, consumables, stationeries and many more
I pick up all those that are dumped at the door
I systematically arrange, enter, tag and then I store.

The company is small so I manage it all unaccompanied and alone
Occasionally though I am supported and interests are shown
Production Head draws from me after QC's nod
The process is simple and none has yet acted like God!

I have in my custody a few millions worth of goods
I feel fluttered from within as the sense of ownership gets in to the moods
My work is praised and the management is pleased
The joy of commendation is enough for a living and is satisfying indeed!

I systematize for them to enable picking up any article that they require
And my passion makes me to feel sometimes that I am also the owner
But God knows that in this social system, legally I am none
Even though all the tasks are enthusiastically done!
